

1/26/05

FCC

To whom it may concern:

I am a concerned citizen. I personally feel that the strength of the American family is deteriorating as we speak. There is enough divorce, TV, and houses that are so large people do not even know who is in the home. That if we chose to cut out the annoying phone calls as one less distraction for the family unit. Then we should have that option without the necessity of having call ID.

Thank you.